Credit Card Reader & Modem

Featuring Cellular Processing and Voice Prompting

THE MB155V-L METER

IDX is offering the InOne PCI-compliant simple credit card reader system, which is designed to be an add-on credit card system. When credit card systems have been added to car washes their bottom lines have shown to increase. The IDX part number N1 38600 KIT1 wireless credit card reader and modem can easily be added to most meters and vacuums.

Since each reader is independent of any sort of back-end computer your investment cost is at a minimum. Installation is easy – no wires to run between the readers and a central computer. No costly high speed Internet or DSL connection is required since each modem is connected via a cellular wireless data signal to your credit card processor for approvals.

The InOne system is simple to use since most people carry at least one credit card or a bank debit card. Each time a card is swiped, the InOne wireless system sends a secure data signal and when the transaction is approved the modem will pulse the timer for the programmed amount. The card holder is informed that the transaction was successful via the display and the voice prompt, as the coin pulse are sent to the timer.

To keep credit card costs low, the owner will choose his own merchant provider and InOne will process the transaction thru their gateway. This ensures that the credit card amounts are deposited directly into the owner's bank account. The owner is automatically notified of system outages, such as those caused by power interruptions then informed when it is back up. The owner is also able to review all of his modems via his on-line account for daily activity, reader and modem status. These are only a few of the benefits found with IDX & InOne.

Power requirements are 24VAC/DC and IDX designed a special 24VAC power cable with isolated coin signals to reduce the chance of cross wiring and shorting out the modem with the wrong coin pulse reference connection.
